THINKING OUT LOUD

By H. M. L.

We note with some surprise that the Gallup polls are apparently running against the Marshall Plan in Europe. This probably brings much comfort to Messrs. Stalin, Molotov et al. It will also bring war much nearer if the Gallup poll proves correct for the country, and we have a good deal of faith in it. For, we regard Gallup polls as much more indicative of the popular will than we do the actions of congress.

Briefly the Marshall Plan provides that we tamp no more U. S. dollars down a bottomless rat hole. It provides that the western nations of Europe which still have aspirations for democratic freedam as we understand democratic freedom, and not as Russia understands it, shall first establish a balance sheet of what they can do for themselves and how much it will be necessary for the United States to provide, beyond that, to set them on their feet as going concerns. Eventally, it provides for the elimination of trade barriers between European states which handicap recovery. It is proposed to make trade between the western European states almost as free as it is between the states of our Union. In this manner the southern portion of Europe will be able to trade its agricultural products for the industrial products of northwestern Europe.

The alternative to the Marshall Plan is the continuation of present confusion and frustration that plays directly into the hands of the communistic states. Communism was born in Russian travail and grows on poverty, suffering and despair. But the Marshall Plan seeks to correct that condition. In the course of time, three or four years, perhaps, it would place the European states in its area in a position of economic independence. The alternative is piece meal relief. Grants from the U. S. dropping a few hundred million dollars here and there to keep whole populations from starving. Undoubtedly for a short time view this would be cheaper. In the long run it would be the most expencive, because it would only keep starving populations alive to suffer more, and eventually to sink them to the status of dole takers from the U. S. Ultimately Russia would sweep them in to its orbit and with the recovery and expansion of its agricultural output, might be able to feed all of western Europe on its usual terms, which, in effect, makes such nations vassals of Russia.

The catch in such an eventuality is that it directly menaces our own system. The Russians frankly acknowledge that communism and democracy cannot exist in the same world. That is really the iron curtain that separates us from Russia and the border nations which she has forcibly converted. If there is any doubt about the strength of the tie with which Russia binds these border states to her, we have only to look at the action of Finland and Czechoslovakia, warm friends of the U. S. until recently, in refusing to participate in the Marshall Plan.

And Russian leaders, being realists with not a heart throb for their own needy population, have granted Czechoslovakia an immediate consignment of much needed wheat for bread. How long Russian economy can hold out against inroads on her own food supply, with satellite states clamoring for the same consideration as given Czecholsovakia, is anybody's guess. We can form a very clear mental image of what would happen in this country were congress to grant wheat shipments to starving countries abroad, leaving our own people to suffer for the lack of bread.

That is the kind of despotism this country is fighting. The few politico-communist fanatics, heading the Russian government are in control of 180 million people, or more, who are moved to submit by deep seated fear. When one reads of the millions of Russias in forced labor camps it is easily understood how deep seated that fear is. In short, we are dealing with a gang fully as criminal as those who were hanged at Nurnberg. As we see it the Marshall Plan is the only feasible way to fight that gang, short of war, and offers the least expense course short of war.

MRS. PRESLEY SAYS HOME BUILDING IS ON SHARP UPSWING

Residential construction in the first six months of 1947 has increased sharply over the same period a ear ago, according to a report issued today by Mrs. Elsie J. Presley, president of the Nevada County Realty Board.

"Non-farm residential construction privately owned and financed, increased in the six months ended last June 30, 63.2 per cent over similar construction for the same period in 1946", Mrs. Presley said.

"The total of housing construction for the 1947 period was $1,883,000,000 as compared with $1,1540,00,000 in the first six months of 1946.

"This report, received from the California Real Estate Association, quoting reports of the Construction Division, United States Department of Commerce, shows conclusively that home building at last is getting under way in tremendous volume." she stated.

"Although we do not have exact figures for Nevada County we are aware of an increase in residential construction in recent months. The upswing has been more noticeable during the last two months, the earlier months having shown a distinct leveling in residential construction.

"However, the outlook both for release in greater volume of building materials and for abandonment of residential building controls gave new impetus to construction volume in May,," Mrs. Presley said. "Since July 1, when controls over home building were abandoned, plans previously shelved have been taken out and dusted off," she said. "We now look for a very substantial increase in the volume of rental housing construction which was largely curtailed while rents for this type of building were subject to governmental control."

Smoke was detected in the building and upon examination a pile of paint soaked rags left by the painters was found in a spare room, ignited by spontaneous combustion, and the fire was quickly extinguished.

Had not the members been in the building, the entire structure would have been ignited before it could have been discovered, and not only destroyed, the new church but also created a severe hazard to that part of the town.

Behind the Curtain

Too much misinformation has been circulated about Russia. A lot of this has been put into circulation by Russia. Some of it has come from fellow-travelers and other admirers of the Soviet experiment. There have been honest mistakes of American writers who have been unable to penetrate the mysteries behind the iron curtain. Prominent Americans who have "toured" Russia have too often become dupes of propaganda shows cleverly contrived for visiting eyes.

Gradually, however, facts are coming to light. Documented and unbiased studies are greatly needed, for they will dispose of many fallacies about the Soviets. Straight facts will set folks right who have accepted such boners as this one: There's no unemployment in Russia. It's quite true, but slave laborers have been estimated at 14,000,000. You see, unemployment insurance is not even necessary.

Facts Talk Loud

Such a factual study is the 141-page book, Communism in Action, prepared under direction of Congressman Dirksen of Illinois. Printed as a house document by the Legislative Reference Service of the Library of Congress, the book may be obtained from the U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., for 25 cents. Copies are also distributed free by the American Wage Earners Foundation, Suite 605, 30 North LaSalle Street, Chicago, Ill.

Written in a simple, factual style, without the customary slanted or biased approach, the book should interest all Americans who have been confronted with the idea that "the State does the job better." The facts set forth therein do not call for elaboration or editorial bias. They talk loud enough to make a mighty good advertisement for the American way of life.

Special Privileges

Russian Communism theoretically envisions a classless society. On the basis of pay, the difference between the status of the wage earner and the manager is much greater there than in America. The many "special privileges and bonuses" that are distributed to the Soviet managers make this inequality more striking. The average wage of workers was reported in a pre-war year as approximately $10 to $12.50 a month.

What about labor? Yes, in Russia labor is active and organized. Joining unions there is a political and economic necessity. Labor leaders are appointed by the ruling group, and their duties are to speed up production, to keep labor disciplined. Wages are not a subject for discussion or negotiation. There is no collective bargaining. Most Russian labor laws, rulings, and practices would be called "anti-labor" by American unions.

VOLUNTARY HEALTH INS. WEEK IS HERE

Proclaimed by Mayor Irvine Seaman, Nevada City's observance of "Voluntary Health Insurance Week" was launched last Monday with the naming of Assemblyman Allen G. Thurman as honorary chairman of the county wide event.

Charles Veale is serving as local chairman of the public education program, which has for its theme: "Freedom from the fear of financial disaster through the protection afforded by voluntary health insurance."

Doctors N. B. Frey, B. W. Hummelt and W. W. Reed are members of a 14-man steering committee of physicians who are working in close association with the directing California Committee for Voluntary Health Insurance.

Calling the public's attention to the week long campaign to stress the economic importance of prepaid health care, Mayor Seaman declared:

"Widespread public acceptance of the principle of budget-basis voluntary health insurance is evident from the present participation of more than 4,000,000 Californians under such voluntary protective guarantees.

Nevada City has a vital community interest in the future growth of all voluntary plans for medical, surgical and hospital care which assure the highest standards of service, at the lowest cost, to the greatest number of citizens."

Health Week is being observed in Sierra County where Assemblyman Lester T. Davis is chairman of the program.

Uncle Sam Says

All of us would like to put dad on pedestal on Father's Day to show im how we feel about him the year ound. I like to think of all Amer an fathers in the role of Minut len, standing guard over the secur y of their families. Certainly they ould do no better than to assure the appiness of themselves and thei omes than by buying United State Savings Bonds regularly.

Two automatic bond buying plans are available now. If dad is on a payroll, the Payroll Savings Plan will assure him days of ease when he gets ready to retire. If dad is a professional man or self-employed, he can use his checking account to buy a bond a month.

ANNOUNCEMENT!

TO THE VOTERS OF NEVADA COUNTY

I will be a candidate for State Senator at the special election to be held in Nevada, Placer and Sierra counties on Tuesday, October 14, 1947, for the purpose of filling the vacancy created by the resignation of former State Senator Jerrold L. Seawell.

I believe that my experience and record in behalf of constructive legislation during my nearly nine years of service in the lower house qualify me for the promotion to the State Senate.

I have always considered a public office as a public trust and during the five regular and fourteen special sessions in which I have had the honor to serve you in the Assembly, I have endeavored to be true to that trust and the confidence which you placed in me.

If you believe I have been faithful to that trust and believe that my record and experience entitle me to the promotion I now seek, I shall appreciate your consideration and support.

Sincerely,
ALLEN G. THURMAN.

Judah's Last Days

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—II Kings 23:31-24:7; Jeremiah 36.

By Alfred J. Buescher

Jehoahaz was made king when Josiah died, and he "did evil in the sight of the Lord." Pharaoh-Nechoh of Egypt put him in chains and took his prisoner to Egypt, where he died, and Jehoiakim was made king.

Jehoiakim taxed the people to give gold and silver to Pharaoh-Nechoh, and he was servant also to Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylonia, for three years, when he rebelled. Then King Jehoiakim died and his son, Jehoiachin, reigned.

In the fourth year of Jehoiakim's reign the Lord told Jeremiah, the prophet, to take a scroll and have written on it all His threats against Judah. Baruch wrote down the words and was told to take it to the king.

The people and princes were terrified at the Lord's threats, but when they were read to the king, he cut off the scroll's pages and cast them into the fire until all were burned.

MEMORY VERSE—Deut. 6:5.

THURMAN ASKS PROMOTION TO STATE SENATE

COLFAX: Assemblyman Allen G. Thurman, of the ten county sixth assembly district, will be a candidate at the special election in the 7th senatorial district to be held on October 14. The election was called last week by Governor Warren to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Senator Jerrold L. Seawell following his election to the state board of equalization. Thurman has represented Placer and Nevada counties along with eight other counties in the lower house for five regular and fourteen special sessions.

The local legislator was first elected to the assembly in 1938. He has served on several important committees of the lower house since his first term including ways and means, fish and game, conservation and oil and mining. He was chairman of the municipal and county government committee during the recent session.

Thurman will seek promotion to the upper house on his experience and record of nine years of service in the lower house. During the recent sessions he consistently supported Governor Warren's highway program during the five months legislative battle. He also supported legislation separating the State highway patrol from the Division of Motor Vehicles; voted for the continuance of the state tax reductions and supported increases in state funds for the aid of the blind and aged. He supported legislation in behalf of the war veterans of the state and voted for salary increases for state teachers and supported other important legislation in behalf of education and the schools of the state.

The local assemblyman is a newspaper publisher with weekly papers in Colfax and Auburn. He has resided in the district for 29 years.

QUINCY: One of California's oldest and most colorful festivals, the Plumas County Fair and Horse Show, opens this year on August 15 for a three day celebration featuring agricultural, livestock and forestry exhibits with fly casting and trout catching competition, gold panning contests and log bucking scheduled as leading special events.

This is the second post war revival of the pioneer county fair which was first held in 1869, only a score of years after the first 49ers packed into the scenic Feather River country.

Rodeo events are on tap in the fair grounds arena every afternoon, according to Pascoe McCrillis, fair board president and judging of more than fifteen classes of show horses will be held under the lights in the arena every evening.

Parades, baseball tourneys and other sports events will fill out the three day program.

AUBURN ISSUING WARRANTS TO PAY CITY EXPENSES

AUBURN: Warrants will be issued by the City of Auburn to make it possible for the city to meet its payroll between August 1 and November 1 of this year.

A resolution was passed unanimously by the city council Wednesday evening calling for publication of a legal notice which will in turn clear the way for the city to register the warrant.

Mayor Boswell informed the council that a limit of 50 per cent of the 1947-48 budget could be pledged for the registration of the warrants.

The Placer County Bank has agreed to put in a bid to handle the warrants. The bank and any other holders of the warrants registered would be paid in full. The bank would advance the money and collect interest from the city.

The city has additional funds forthcoming from the state.

Indicental to the discussion Ray Carlisle announced the tax rate for the city would be $1.32 on the $100 assessed valuation.

FROM THE BOOK EDITED BY C. L. CANFIELD

Squaws live with them in their cabins down on the river but it is looked on as a disgrace and no decent miner will associate with them. The Indians burn their dead and I went over to the ridge with Jim Gleason to a buck's funeral Friday night. It was a queer ceremony. They piled up a cord or more of pine limbs, wrapped the buck in a blanket, deposited his body on the pile, together with his bow and arrows, clothes and small belongings and set it on fire. The bucks of the tribe set around outside in the shadows, glum and silent as ghosts. The squaws joined hands and set up a stamping, first with one foot and then with the other, wailing together in a mournful chorus which sounded like "wallah tu mae' and which they repeated over and over as long as I stayed there. Others replenished the fire with pine knots and limbs. The main attraction was an old ugly squaw who, I was told, although no relation to the buck, was chosen chief mourner. She went into a frenzy howling and screeching like mad, contorting and twisting her body and spinning round and round until she exhausted herself and tumbled to the ground. Then she would come to and crawl to the fire, get hold of a piece of wood out of which the pitch was frying and daub it over her head and face until her hair was saturated with tar. They say that she never washes herself or tries to get the pitch off, and the bucks wife can't take another man until the tar wears off. It got to be monotonous and disgusting and I came away by midnight, but the Indians kept it up two nights, or until the last vestige of the body was burned up. What heathens they are to dispose of their dead in such a barbarous way, instead of burying them decently in the ground.

NOTICE! to Nevada Irrigation District Water Users

Due to increased demands the Nevada Irrigation District is having difficulty in supplying its water consumers for this year. The South Yuba Canal, which serves most of Nevada County with water, is now running to its full capacity and no additional water can be obtained until the completion of the Scotts Flat Dam, which is now in course of construction and which will be finished toward the end of this year.

The cooperation of water users is being asked at this time rather than to make more drastic regulations, which may become necessary if cooperation by all water users is not immediately obtained.

There is sufficient water in the system at this time to serve all applicants for water, provided caution is practiced in its use and full cooperation on the part of water users is obtained.

It is requested that no irrigation be done, where a domestic service is supplied, after 7:00 o'clock P. M. and until 7:00 o'clock A. M. Irrigation of lawns and flowers should be limited to the time necessary for the water to get to the roots of plants, and sprinklers should be turned off after running in one place for such time.

It is further requested that no use of water be made directly from hoses without attachment of sprinkler or suitable nozzle, and in no case should water be run out of the hose directly onto the ground without going through a sprinkler.

It is most urgent that users of water stop all unnecessary use of water at this time, and through the hot season of July and August, and that they cooperate to the fullest extent in saving water so that the farmers of the District may receive their allotted quantities of water necessary to raise their crops.

Jam and Cocoanut Cake Squares

Easy and pretty! That's the way to describe these dainty cake squares waiting to be served with tall glasses of iced lemonade for afternoon refreshments. Shortly before serving, cut cake into squares. Spread tops and sides lightly with jam or preserves from the grocers, using two or three of your favorite kinds for color contrast. Dip the squares into a dish of shredded cocoanut to give a fluffy white coating with the bright colored jam peeking through.

THE - Diary of a 49'er

JUNE 30, 1850—This last week was my lucky one. Wednesday I struck a crevice in the bedrock on the rim of the creek and it was lousy with gold. It took me two days to work it out and I got almost twenty nine ounces which with three ounces rocked the first two days raised the week's work to more than five hundred dollars. That makes twelve hundred dollars that he has of my savings. The strike helped me to put rid of the homesick feeling that has made me miserable for two weeks. The only thing bothering me is that the claim is almost worked out and I'll have to hunt new diggings soon. Strange I haven't heard from North since I sent him that fifty dollars. I got a letter from Hetty however, the first I have received, asking me to look after him. Said he was weak and easily led. This is no place for weaklings but I'll take care of him for her sake. Had two square meals in town yesterday. They put me out of face with my regular grub.

JULY 7, 1850—Been in town all day. The citizens had a celebration Thursday but it did not amount to much. Lawyer McConnell made a speech and another fellow read the Declaration of Independence. Then everyone fell into line, marched up and down the street, hurrahing and firing off pistols and that's all there was to it. The town was jammed with ousiders and the hotels and restaurants ran out of grub. The saloons and gambling houses were chock-a-block and half the men in sight were full of rot-gut whiskey. Went in to see the pretty French woman but could not get near the table where she was dealing. She's a handsome woman and the boys say she is straight as a string. That may be but it is strange, considering the company she keeps and her occupation. Went home early as I couldn't get a meal. It was so hot it was just simmering and I took a snooze under the big pine in front of the cabin. There was a fellow picking a banjo and singing a song in town today and it kept running in my head. It was about "Joe Bowers from Pike." The second verse was:

I used to love a gal there, they called her Sally Black
I axed her for to marry me, she said it was a whack;
But, ses she to me, Joe Bowers, before we hitch for life,
You ought to have a little home to keep your little wife.

If I can save enough money to buy the Slocum farm next to our place and Hetty says "yes" I'll have that "little home and little wife" and that will be about all I want on this earth. I would like to have enough capital so that I would not have to slave from sunrise to dark as I did on dad's farm. I don't know as the work was any harder than what we do here, but there is a difference. There all we got was just about a bare living, at the best a few hundred dollars put away for a year's work, but here one don't know what the next stroke of the pick, or the next rocker full of dirt may bring forth—an ounce or twenty ounces it may be. That is the excitement and fascination that makes one endure the hardships, working up to one's knees in cold water, breaking one's back in gouging and crevicing, the chance that the next panful will indicate the finding of a big deposit. That's the charm and it would be a great life were it not for the nights and the lonely cabin with only one's thoughts for company. It brings up to my mind a piece I used to recite at school. "Oh Solitude, where are the charms that sages have seen in thy face?" It's deadly lonesome and there are times when it seems as if I just could not stand it any longer. Baked two big loaves of bread in the Dutch oven. That will last through the week.

JULY 21, 1850—Two weeks since I took up my pen. My hands are all calloused and can do better work with a shovel than writing diaries. Have had bad luck, only cleaned up a little over four ounces and the claim is pretty near played out. Anderson offers me a share in his claim. He s working on a dry gulch just about half a mile north of the cabin. Its rich on the bedrock but he has to strip off about ten feet of top dirt and then pack the gravel down to the creek a couple of hundred yards. He offers me one-half a share in the ground if I will help him cut a ditch from the creek to the claim to carry the water. We will have to dig about a quarter of a mile. He says there is a new way of taking out gold by a machine called a Long Tom. He saw it working on Kellogg's claim on Bush Creek and as much dirt can be put through it in a day as one can with a rocker in a week. I will go over and look at it tomorrow. Anderson is a good fellow and the only one on the creek I care much about. He is from Syracuse, New York, and has a good education. If I take his offer we will cabin together and it won't be so lonesome. Haven't heard a word from North and I don't know where to write to him.
